YACHT "DID"
DID THE TRICK.Garbutt's Racer Beats the Aimee at Long Beach.Match Contest Exciting to Sailors and Spectators.Fellows Drops Part of His Crew on Home Leg.

The Did did it again. In the way of it, this means that the small eighteen-footer owned by Frank A. Garbutt scooped everything in sight in yesterday's race off Long Beach. She did not hold the lead all the way, but it could almost be said that it was her race from start to finish, and she came at last to the gun.

under a heavy pressure of canvas, honor and money. The way of it was this: that the new cork eighteen-footer recently built by Fellows & Pugh was constructed for the purpose of giving its owners a satisfactory revenge for a previous defeat on October 22 of last year. On that occasion Mr. Garbutt's Did, being then an unknown, imported craft from Racine, was matched against a previous vessel of the Fellows company for $500, and then by superior sailing in a light wind removed these stakes and a great many outside bets.

MAKES SPECIAL BOAT. Naturally, all the yachting sharpshooters who got caught on the wrong side wanted satisfaction and a new agreement was signed, sealed and delivered, and the Fellows company was delivered of another offering to bring Frank A. Garbutt to a proper sense of a beginner's insignificance.

From these terms. For months both sides have exhausted thought in preparation for this contest. But as a rule, the outsiders who were betting did not publish their names. All they wanted was to get their money back quietly, and there never was a boat that made a better promise in the way of giving her backers satisfaction than the Aimee.

The new boat came to the line in perfect condition. Her sails were fine. Her crew was right. Her model was exceedingly clever. Except at the start, she was sailed as well as any boat could be handled, and at one time better than the Did.

Perhaps this failure was solely due to better preparation on points made out of the common. But let the facts say.

YACHTSMEN NUMEROUS. All the yachtsmen of this neighborhood turned out to look on. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Polson and a number of their friends had a power boat chartered, and everything that could get afloat on the ocean was out to see the race. Mrs. Garbutt and Mrs. Ivers had a large party on the chartered steamer Eagle, which fast and commodious vessel gave the guests the best possible view of the contest.

The Eagle was honored also by the presence of the judges elected under the terms of the written agreement. These were Mr. Little, owner of the big sloop Nellie; Byron Ekman, owner of the Detroit; and Mr. Clark, owner of the yacht Nemo, which soon was to be sailed round the Horn to the waters from the Great Lakes.

Both the competitors sailed to Long Beach under their own canvas and when the judges arrived on the Eagle the first five minutes preparation gun was let off at 1 o'clock.

At this time both racers were ready; Frank Garbutt, who also engaged the Fast Paquitta (Capt. Allen) as tender to the Did, had gone aboard his racer, and the wind at this time was westerly. Joe Fellows immediately swung for weather position and went to windward, while the Did remained spinning and flying to leeward of the start line off the Long Beach pier.

BAD START FOR AIMEE. While the five minutes prior to the starting gun was being exhausted, Fellows did not notice that the wind had shifted inshore to northwest, and he was putting him almost dead to leeward. However, there was time enough to get back to the line before the gun fired, when he crossed at the leeward end of it.

Here he was in a highly undesirable position, being right under the lee of the Garbutt boat, and, although he was already in advance, he was really defeated on the start. The Did passed along to windward of him at that crucial moment when a good position on the start sometimes means the whole thing, as between closely matched boats. Garbutt's photo shows this position to perfection and the picture tells just why Aimee's wind was being split all the time. The Fellows boat fell off in this wind-jamming through light air.

And surely the Did, most skillfully handled by Matt Walsh of Gloucester, Mass., was drawing out to windward, which was then northwesterly, and about this time, as per usual, Mrs. Garbutt gaily announced that luncheon was ready. It has been noticed before that this delicate repeat comes on just about the time that the Did's victory seems pretty safe.

DID IS STALLED. But in this case an alteration in the wind from northwesterly to a trifle south of east, suddenly changed the aspect of affairs and rudely interfered with the harmony of the repeat. While Fellows was well out on the starboard tack he got this new wind first and from a rather bad position in the rear he suddenly found himself in the lead. The Did got left for awhile in the light northwesterly air, while Aimee was doing big things on the new wind.

This was Aimee's once chance of the day, if she had come about here and nailed the Did under her lee, tack for tack, this history would have been different. But this one chance of the gods was neglected, and as soon as the Did soaked out slowly into the bristling sea also lay down to scratch gravel.

This was like the beginning of a new race, as the hard-fought advantage hitherto secured by the Garbutt boat were wholly removed, and in a new sea the active racers were now plunging and straining hard.

It was here that Garbutt played a card which has been up his sleeve for some time.

He was all run down from the effects of the grip, says Mrs. Ansel Hall, of No. 5 High street, Norwich, Conn., "and could not seem to get strength to walk; I could not eat a full meal, my stomach was so weak, and I was so nervous that I could not sleep. I could only stay in bed a few minutes at a time, either night or day. The least little thing would startle me. I had difficulty in breathing and had frequent fainting spells."

"My general health was completely wrecked and I had neuralgia and rheumatic pains, dyspepsia, constipation, and female weakness. My physician attended me for the grip and again for the condition that it left me in, but I got no strength from the tonics he prescribed. In fact, nothing helped me until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they cured me."

"I grew stronger and gained flesh from the time I began taking them. I am satisfied that the pills are all that I can make them for the grip and again for the condition that it left me in, but I got no strength from the tonics he prescribed. In fact, nothing helped me until I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they cured me."

of Frank Garbutt for this contest, and the Aimee, as made by H. C. Carver, certainly shows well on deck, but may cause delay at times.

GOOD POSITION OF DID'S JIB. Yet this sail, when once set, was much more efficacious than that of the Aimee. Its wide expanse of silk came down close to the water and caught all the pressure close to the surface. While the Aimee's spinnaker ballooned high all the way home and apparently could not be trimmed to suit low. Moreover, it seemed to require that one man should stand on its boom to keep it down, and this was a detriment to a short boat running free.

Garbutt's spinnaker boom extended at right angles to the mast and stayed there, as if nailed in position, all the way home. There seemed to be no need to choose here in the running of the boats, and the case of the Aimee seemed hopeless when Fellows signalled a big power launch (Hepler No. 1) which came in close enough to the racer to allow Joe Pugh and another of the crew to climb aboard.

QUERER ACT PERMITTED. This curious proceeding in which the Aimee was able to get rid of useless human freight in her run home was another part of the day's racing oddities, for, as has been said, there was nothing in the agreement to prevent these things being done, and the judges were banking their stars that there were no fouls at marks or incidents which they would be asked to adjudicate when all reference to racing rules had been removed by mutual agreement.

This general goal delivery did not, however, make the slightest difference in the result, as the Did, sailing along with great speed, but with no appearance of strain, retained her lead with ease, while the Aimee danced along lightly, without getting any nearer.

The timing at the finish showed that the elapsed time of the Fellows boat in this run was two and a half seconds less than the Did. But the difference, and more than this difference, was lost by the Did not setting her spinnaker for a long time after rounding the outer mark, so that the scudding of the two fast craft is almost the same.

SPECTATORS CROWD PIER. The huge party at Long Beach was black with people when this much advertised and highly-interesting race approached its finish. Certainly, two or three thousand people were present when the last gun was fired, without touching a rope on the whole way home, the Garbutt boat flew in to victory at the end of her twelve-mile course with much more ease and dignity than could be expected in so small a craft, and the cheer which received as he crossed the finish line at 2:30:44, being one minute and forty-four and a half seconds nearer to the winner than at the outer mark.

NOTED MARKSMAN HERE. SAN FRANCISCO GETS POPE. H. M. Pope, a marksman of national reputation and holder of the world's fifty and 100-shot records on the American target, of 461 and 917, was in this city yesterday on a flying visit and renewed old acquaintances with

RESTORE STRENGTH

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Actually
Make New Blood and Good Health Follows.

The evil effects that follow many diseases—particularly the grip and the wasting fevers, such as typhoid and malaria, are caused by the bad condition in which these diseases leave the blood. As a result, the flesh continues to fall away, the sufferer grows nervous and irritable, and even slight exertion causes shortness of breath. These are dangerous symptoms and indicate that the system is in a state that invites pneumonia, bronchitis or even consumption. What is needed is a new supply of rich, red blood to carry health and strength to every part of the body.

"I was all run down from the effects of the grip," says Mrs. Ansel Hall, of No. 5 High street, Norwich, Conn., "and could not seem to get strength to walk; I could not eat a full meal, my stomach was so weak, and I was so nervous that I could not sleep. VENTURA, March 4.—Charley Hall, the long Swish pitcher with the diminutive feet, who has already pitched two seasons successfully for the Seattle team, and who will again be the bright particular star in the box for that club the coming season, has been settling his vacation here. His native town, Hall is in tip-top shape for the coming season. He has not had much in the way of baseball, but he has become an expert in tennis and may be seen daily at play on the courts of the Seaside Tennis Club. From being the best in the state, he has advanced to the front rank, and if he was inclined could become as well known in tennis as in baseball. He has all the curves, cuts, lobs, amasses and drives necessary in the game down to a fine point, and has already defeated the best in tennis that the town affords. Tennis has kept him in excellent condition, and he feels that he will be able to make a showing in pitching when the season opens in April.

Auto Races Off.
The heavy rain Saturday night caused the abandonment of the automobile races that were scheduled for yesterday afternoon at Agricultural Park. The track is a peculiar one, and a little while makes it very slippery. Yesterday it was like grease, and even the motorcycles could not keep upright on it. The day's racing was abandoned, not postponed. Until Barney Oldfield gets here nothing more will be done. Oldfield is due soon, for he comes West after the Georgia meet, which began yesterday. He has a new ninety-horse power Green Dragon, with which he hopes to do things.

CO-EDS PREPARE FOR FUNNY FETE.

OCCIDENTAL STUDENTS TO GIVE OPEN-AIR FESTIVAL.

Religious Fun on Tap This Afternoon at Presbyterian College When Country Fair is Opened—Penny Pike, Minstrel Show, and a Host of Other Attractions Are Billed.

Occidental College students are interested in the lawn fete to be given this afternoon on the college campus. The tennis court will be inclosed and a carnival of jollity will be in progress during the afternoon and evening.

Girls in gypsy costumes will tell fortunes; pretty co-eds will preside at a Japanese garden, where tea will be served; a picture gallery, with caricatures of the professors and college celebrities, will be a part of the show. A colonial booth adorned with pretty colonial dainties in costume will be a feature. There will also be a country store with country maidens selling goods. All the parts will be sustained by Occidental College women, and the show will be one of the best ever.

The unique feature of the outdoor entertainment will be the "penny pike." Wonderful stunts will be displayed along this street, and for each the visitor is supposed to pay in coin of the realm. The money will be a funny feature of the freak performance.

For the purpose of securing money for the Cape Schuyler fair is given. The college desires to send twenty-five co-eds to the Young Women's Christian association conference at Capetown. There is every indication that money will be raised to send the desired delegation.

The large tennis courts are adapted to the proposed outdoor fair, and when covered with canvas will present the appearance of a huge circus tent. The streets will be in the open on the grounds near the court.

Weeks of painstaking rehearsals have resulted in gathering a creditable array of talent. The performers are among the brightest of the college students, and many original "skits" will delight the crowd.

Heretofore Occidental has been able to send from seven to twelve young women to the northern conference. This year her delegation will be a record breaker in point of numbers, and the faculty of the college will place a mark for future years by sending more than a score of co-eds to Capetown.

GOOD FOR SEWELL.

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Jockey Sewell's managers yesterday offered by local bankers, representing John W. Gates of New York, the sum of $100,000 for the contract papers of Jockey Lee Sewell, the jockey hit of the local season in so far as race riders go. So far the deal has not been consummated, but it is more than probable that Sewell will be seen riding for the stable owned by Gates and campaigned by "Bookie" Burnell at the Metropolitan tracks the coming summer. Among the horses owned by Gates and now in the hands of Burnell at Los Angeles, is the filly Lotus, raised as one of the coming sensations of 1906. Sewell left for Memphis last night.

NOT ALL JOY FOR ORPHANS.

Many Homes Offered but Few Prove the Best.

State on the Alert to Check Abuse of Children.

Half Dozen Applicants for Every Little Waif.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.

When we are authoritatively told that for every orphan child in the charitable institutions of California there are half a dozen persons willing and anxious to adopt that child, we are inclined to hesitate before admiring for an unexampled display of benevolence and a suspicion that such benevolence may perhaps be diluted with motives not wholly creditable. This is actually the situation throughout the State.

The problem of how to dispose of the child is not nearly so pressing as that of other problem of how not to dispose of it, and while orphan children must unquestionably be disposed of in some way, the directors of benevolent institutions are at their wits' ends to discriminate between those who want the child for its own sake, and those who are hiding self-interest beneath the cloak of philanthropy.

A. J. Pillsbury, secretary of the State Board of Examiners, said that every dependent orphan child in a private family at once placed in a prirate family and that the supply would be chiefly to the district. Parents who have lost a child by death sometimes seek to adopt another, and a somewhat larger class includes those who are desirous of a child who wish to adopt an orphan for what may be called social purposes. The child will be well treated so long as it continues to please, but such persons as these are particularly apt to the kind of child they select. The child must have eyes of a certain color, hair of a certain texture and tint, and regular and well-shaped teeth.

Sooner or later such a child will begin to show the less pleasing of childish traits. Like all other healthy children, it will quickly show the absence of the moral training that is only conferred by the promptings of affection or of a strong sense of duty. Then it will be taken back to the institution, and its foster parents, in self-defense, will have little idea of doing anything for the child. They have a great idea that the child shall do something for them, and when they find that it does not, they are disappointed.

There are plenty of persons who have no appreciation whatever of the rightful claims of the child for education for the moral growth that comes from love and for the opportunities for self-development along childlike lines. The child is simply a plaything to them, and when it is not a plaything, it is a nuisance.

Every institution in the State has grown wary of intrusting children to those of whom they know little or nothing. As there is no machinery for the selection of those who wish to adopt, the State is forced to rely on the good will of the public.

People now demand the right to know exactly what they eat. To be told by maker or retailer that the food is "pure" is not satisfactory. Candy may contain "pure" white sugar, but it may also contain "pure" glucose and yet be quite digestible and even beneficial. Tomato catsup may contain a small amount of salicylic or boric acid as a necessary preservative, which may be harmful to one and beneficial to another.

Wheat flour may contain a portion of corn flour and really be improved. Olive oil may be made of cotton seed oil. Butter may contain beef suet and yet be nutritious.

The person who buys and eats must protect himself and family, and he has a right to, and now demands a law under which he can make intelligent selection of food.

Many pure food bills have been introduced and some passed by State legislatures; many have been offered to Congress, but all thus far seem objectionable.

It has seemed difficult for politicians to formulate a satisfactory bill that would protect the common people and yet avoid harm to honest makers and purveyors of the common necessities of life. No government commission or officer has the right to fix "food standards" to define what the people shall eat, and what they shall not eat, for what agrees with one may not agree with another, and what act would deprive the common citizen of his personal liberty.

The Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., perhaps the largest makers of prepared foods in the world, have naturally a close knowledge of the needs of the people and the details of the business of the purveyors (the retail grocers) and, guided by this knowledge, they have prepared a bill for submission to Congress which is intended to accomplish the desired ends, and inasmuch as a citizen of the United States has a right to food protection even when he enters another State, it is deemed proper that the whole matter be brought under the control of a national law to govern all the States. A copy of the bill is herewith reproduced:

Section 1 governs the maker whether the food is put up in small packages sealed, or in barrels, boxes or otherwise.

Section 2 governs the retailer who may open a barrel and sell the food in small quantities. When he puts the goods into a paper bag he must also enclose a printed copy of the statement of the maker which was affixed to the original package and inasmuch as the retailer cannot undertake to guarantee the statement of ingredients he must publish the statement of the maker and add his own name and address as a guarantee of his selling the food as it is represented to him, and he must take control of this matter and provide a national law to govern all the States. A copy of the bill is herewith reproduced:

adopt orphans and whose motives are all that they should be are received with an air of suspicion where they expected to be welcomed.

A curious feature of California institutional life is the existence of societies whose aim it is to take children from the orphanages and place them in private homes. Mr. Pillsbury says these societies have not succeeded in winning the confidence of those in charge of the orphanages. These latter do not think that their duty consists merely in disposing of their charges anywhere and anyhow, but that a heavy responsibility rests upon them for the future of the children who have been consigned to their care.

And so the problem grows greater day by day, and it will continue to grow until the State more fully recognizes that it is, after all, the ultimate guardian of orphan life. Upon this point Mr. Pillsbury has distinct ideas. Let the State Board of Charities and Corrections, he says, be armed by the Legislature with additional powers that would enable it to exercise some practical supervision over the disposition of orphans; let it be made compulsory that the disposition of every dependent child be registered with the board, so that the board will be looking to, and so that the evil of child slavery be not allowed to disguise itself under the cloak of philanthropy.

It is only the vigilance of the orphanage authorities that prevents the institutions of the State from being looked upon as slave pens, always open to the demands of those who are only too eager to victimize the most helpless and the most defenseless of human beings.

GOSPEL TEMPERANCE.

Maj. Koepfli Presides at the Francis Murphy Meeting—The Apostle is Unusually Eloquent.

Blanchard Hall was not large enough to accommodate the crowd of people who wished to hear Francis Murphy last night, and he invited them to "sit two on a seat, if you please."

Maj. J. O. Koepfli presided at the meeting, and as a representative citizen, bore testimony to the good work that the temperance apostle is doing in Los Angeles. Maj. Koepfli in a most effective way tell him by letter how you desire him to represent you.

Remember, the Congressman is in Congress to represent the people from his district, and if a goodly number of citizens express their views to him, he secures a very sure guide to duty. Remember also that the safety of the people is assured by insisting that the will of the people be carried out, and not the machinations of the few for selfish interests.

This pure food legislation is a pure movement of the people for public protection. It will be opposed only by those who fatten their pockets by deceiving and injuring the people. Therefore, if your Representative in Congress evades his patriotic duty, hold him to strict accountability, and if necessary demand equitable and honest service. This is a very different condition than when a faction demands class legislation of the Congressmen. Several years ago the but-and some passed by State legislatures; many have been offered to Congress, but all thus far seem objectionable.

It has seemed difficult for politicians to formulate a satisfactory bill that would protect the common people and yet avoid harm to honest makers and purveyors of the common necessities of life. No government commission or officer has the right to fix "food standards" to define what the people shall eat, and what they shall not eat, for what agrees with one may not agree with another, and what act would deprive the common citizen of his personal liberty.

The Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., perhaps the largest makers of prepared foods in the world, have naturally a close knowledge of the needs of the people and the details of the business of the purveyors (the retail grocers) and, guided by this knowledge, they have prepared a bill for submission to Congress which is intended to accomplish the desired ends, and inasmuch as a citizen of the United States has a right to food protection even when he enters another State, it is deemed proper that the whole matter be brought under the control of a national law to govern all the States. said it had many times happened during his official duties in connection with the Chamber of Commerce that he had undertaken to introduce Mr. Murphy to men, but was invariably met by the statement that they had known him thirty years ago somewhere back East.

Murphy was more eloquent than usual, notwithstanding he has been ill at his home during the entire week, and his energy and powers of recitation are a surprise to all. He made many splendid points last night on the subject of "Fortiveness," and rectified many touching incidents to show the great reward that follows in its wake.

Miss Marion Bovard delighted the audience with an exquisite violin solo. She has done the same at other times, but surpassed herself last night. Vocal numbers were sung by Annie Schell, Row, Mrs. Hammon, and Mrs. Hardison, and a duet by Mr. and Mrs. Baker, the blind singers. Mr. Baker is 66 years of age today, and he has a voice that is yet a marvel to all who hear him, while Mrs. Baker sings with an alto voice as rich and soft as a lute.

FREAK BALL GROUND.

EAST LIVERPOOL (O.), March 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Probably in no other part of the United States, except here, is there a baseball diamond in which it is possible for a batter to send a ball into three States. Such a freak geographical condition actually exists in connection with the grounds which have just been leased for the Klondike Club of this city.

The diamond is laid out on a lot which, ever since the union was organized, has been known as the "State Corner." If a batsman makes a home-run hit, the ball will be sent over into the State of West Virginia. This, providing it is sent over this base. Should a foul ball be sent over, the catcher would have to chase the ball in Pennsylvania. If a straight drive or a bunt is made, the ball will merely roll into the State of Ohio.

The grounds are of the regulation size, and the measurements made by a surveyor have revealed the oddity of conditions. Taking advantage of this freak of nature, the Klondike Club is going to widely advertise the fact that its club will play ball in three States simultaneously.

It meets approval cut it out, sign name and address and send to your Representative in Congress. Buy two or more publications from which you cut this. Keep one for reference and send the other to one of the U.S. Senators from your State. Ask one or two friends to do the same and the chances for PURE FOOD will be good.
